This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

EDITOR'S PREFACE.

THE Fourth Volume of the Corporation Diary (1641 to 1654) embraces that momentous period of English History, which ensued between the meeting of the Long Parliament at the close of 1640, and the first Protectorate Parliament of Cromwell in 1654. A considerable portion of its contents is filled with Military details. Occupying a central position between the Head-quarters of the Parliamentary forces at Windsor and the Royalist Head-quarters at Oxford, the Town was the scene of many stirring passages in the Civil War. It sustained a short but memorable Siege in April, 1643, and was alternately garrisoned by both contending parties.

It may be found convenient, as before, to arrange my remarks under the following heads :—

POLITICAL EVENTS. We have before mentioned that the Members returned for Reading at the Meeting of the Long Parliament were Sir Francis Knollys, sen., and Sir Francis Knollys, jun., both of whom warmly espoused the popular cause. Tanfield Vachell, of Coley, was appointed High Sheriff, 1641-2. He was among the first to adopt the Parliamentary side; and on the outbreak of the great quarrel had refused compliance with a summons from the King to raise the Military force of the County on his behalf.

Among the chief events of this period, to which reference is made in the Diary, we may mention (1) The Irish Rebellion of 1641, which by its savage massacre of the English Settlers produced a general feeling of horror and exasperation throughout the Country. (2) The Invasion of Scotland in 1650, when the marvellous success of Cromwell is recorded by the payment of 30*s.* to the Ringers after the Battle of Dunbar. (3) We have notices of the war with Holland, in 1654, and of those successive Naval engagements so obstinately contested, which were to decide the question of Maritime supremacy between the two rivals, and to make England the Mistress of the Seas. A large body of the Dutch prisoners was interned in Reading, and an allowance made by the Government for their maintenance.

There is a significant reticence in this part of the Diary, with respect to those contentious subjects, which most deeply excited the popular mind. This may have arisen from the fact that the authority of the Mayor was partially superseded for the time by the Commandant of the Garrison, or from a fear of provoking the animosity of political opponents. Thus we find no reference whatever to the execution of the King in 1649, followed shortly after by the execution of Lord Holland, High Steward of the Borough. There is no mention of the suppression of the Long Parliament in 1652; nor of Cromwell's elevation to the Protectorate in Dec. 1653, although his promotion to that dignity was ordered to be proclaimed in every town throughout the Kingdom. Other matters of equal moment are also omitted. But the general feeling of the Inhabitants, in petitioning for an accommodation between the King and Parliament (1643), was an indication that England was weary of this internecine strife, that the Country at large was attached to its ancient Monarchy, and longed for a settlement of all vexed questions upon Constitutional principles. It is certain that the Military despotism, which now became so formidable to National liberty, had no real support either here, or elsewhere.

Before closing my remarks under this Section, it may be as well to speak of the Representatives in Parliament. The younger Knollys died in 1645, and was succeeded by Tanfield Vachell as Member for Reading. Sir Francis Knollys, sen., died in 1648, and was succeeded by Daniel Blagrave, afterwards Recorder, who undertook, if elected, to serve without receiving the usual stipend. Blagrave was one of the High Court of Justice, who signed the death-warrant of Charles I. After the Restoration he took flight to the Continent, and died in exile.

In the Short, or "Barebones" Parliament, convened by the Council of Officers in 1653, Reading does not appear to have been represented. In the first Protectorate Parliament of Cromwell, 1654, when Reading was limited to one member only, Colonel Robert Hammond, at that time Military Governor, was elected on June 28. The conduct of the Mayor, as returning officer, was so scandalous on this occasion that a scene of tumult ensued. It is probably for this reason that the usual notification of Hammond's Election has not been entered on the Minutes. It may be interesting to know that this was the same Colonel Hammond, who was Governor of the Isle of Wight during the King's imprisonment at Carisbrook. He was on terms of intimate friendship with Cromwell, and had married a daughter of John Hampden, the illustrious Patriot, who was himself connected with Reading by his second marriage with Letitia Vachell, of Coley. This may explain the cause of his being appointed High Steward of the Borough. Col. Hammond only enjoyed the dignity for a few months, and was succeeded as High Steward in the same year by Bulstrode, Lord Whitlocke.

The County Records during several years of the Civil War are unfortunately missing, but the Diary has enabled me to supply the names of the High Sheriffs of Berks for 1645 and 1648.

MILITARY EVENTS. With regard to the part taken by Reading in the History of the Civil War, I shall endeavour to connect the links scattered throughout the Diary, and piece them together when necessary from other sources.

As commanding the upper portion of the Thames Valley, and situated on the highroad to the Western Counties, Reading was a post of strategic importance. Before hostilities had actually commenced it was garrisoned for the Parliament, and Henry Marten, Member for Berks, one of the most prominent political characters of the time, and subsequently one of the Regicides, was appointed Governor. After the indecisive Battle of Edgehill, Oct. 23, 1642, the King fixed his head-quarters at Oxford, and the Royalist Cavalry under Prince Rupert appeared in the vicinity of the Town. It was at that period unfortified, and being untenable, Marten abandoned his post, and took flight to London. Reading was immediately occupied by the Royal forces, and Sir Arthur Aston, an experienced officer, who had distinguished himself at Edgehill, was appointed Governor, with a Garrison of about 4,000 men. Aston took prompt measures for fortifying the Town with earthworks on its unprotected sides, and erected 3 forts to guard the main approaches (see Plan). Stringent regulations were passed for forced labour on the entrenchments, and heavy contributions levied on the Inhabitants for the Defence.

The opposing forces remained in winter quarters until the Spring. On April 17 the Earl of Essex sat down before Reading with a force of about 16,000 Foot and 3,000 Horse. His head-quarters were at Southcot, a moated house, then the seat of the Blagrave family, and he delivered his attack on the South and West sides of the Town. The Governor was disabled by a severe wound, but the Town held out under the command of Col. Fielding for about 12 days. On the failure of an attempt for its relief by the King in person, and his repulse in the skirmish at Caversham Bridge, the Town was surrendered, and the Garrison allowed to march out with the honours of war. Sir Arthur Aston was afterwards Governor of Oxford, and transferred to Ireland. He finally lost his life at the Siege of Drogheda, when the whole Garrison was put to the sword,—an act of ruthless severity, which will always tarnish the military reputation of Cromwell.

The Town remained in the possession of the Parliament until the following September. After the first battle of Newbury, Essex being closely pursued on his retreat, stayed but two days in Reading, and evacuated the Town. It was immediately re-occupied by the Royalist forces, and Sir Jacob Astley (afterwards created Baron Reading) held it with a garrison of 3,000 Foot and 500 Horse. During this time we have the first historical notice of a "Berkshire" Regiment, and are informed that a portion of the garrison was detached to the assistance of Lord Hopton, who was upholding the Royalist cause in the West.

In May, 1644, the Royalist cause was again on the decline, and a Council of War at Oxford decided that the fortifications of Reading should be "slighted" or dismantled, and the outlying garrisons recalled to Oxford. Some relics of these fortifications may still be observed in the Forbury, where the existing mound marks the situation of a strong redoubt.

After this time Reading remained in the hands of the triumphant party till the close of the Commonwealth. During the campaigns in the West, the soldiers of the Parliament were continually passing through its streets, or quartered in its houses. Cromwell with a large force occupied Reading in 1647. Among its Military Governors we find the names of Colonel Baxter, Colonel Hammond, and other Officers of note in the service of the Parliament.

This Siege had no appreciable effect on the War generally. It was a struggle between the Train-bands of one district with the Train-bands of another. That splendid force of veteran Soldiery, which was hereafter to become invincible by its valour, discipline, and enthusiasm, had not yet been called into existence. A few skilled officers, like Dalbier, trained in foreign wars, directed the Engineering operations, but until the new modelling of the Army in 1645 no professional Soldiers held high command, and the result in almost every action was inconclusive.

The Siege, however, is remarkable on other accounts. Among the Officers engaged on the Parliamentary side we find a large number of distinguished names. Essex, Hampden, and Skippon, Lord Grey of Wark, Lord Roberts, Col. Hurry, all held important commands in the besieging force. It is an interesting fact that Christopher Milton, a younger brother of the great Poet, together with his father, were then residing in the Parish of St. Laurence, and were shut up in Reading during the continuance of the Siege.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS. Shortly after the King's death in 1649, application was made to have the Town Charter, granted by Charles I., exemplified under the Great Seal of the Commonwealth. The Royal insignia were probably effaced at the same time, and the Mace altered.

A strong reluctance seems to have been felt during this period to undertake Municipal office. At that day posts of dignity were posts of danger. The Town was equally divided in political opinions, and as party spirit ran high, there was a natural dread of the penalties which might be inflicted, when either side happened to be in the ascendant. In 1646 a Petition was made to the House of Commons for the removal of eight loyalist Members of the Corporation. Again, the excessive contributions exacted both by the King and the Parliament pressed heavily on the Inhabitants, and no little unpopularity was incurred by their collection.

Hence we find continual applications to be released from serving either as Aldermen or Assistants; and a heavy fine imposed upon a newly elected Mayor who refused to be sworn in. That these apprehensions of personal safety were not unfounded appears from the fact that in 1644 the Mayor (William Brackston) was seized by a party of Horse, carried off to Wallingford, and detained there by the Governor until the Town had paid the amount levied upon it. One of the most remarkable entries in the Diary is an account of the Meetings held in the Mayor's House during his enforced absence by his sympathetic colleagues, to confer on the measures to be taken for his liberation. It is curious to note that during this stormy epoch, the Mayor's fee of £60 per ann. for his official Expenses was punctually paid, or in lieu thereof he was to receive the Toll of the Market.

The State of Reading after the Civil War. Throughout these 12 years of Civil contest, the position of the Inhabitants was one of unexampled suffering. During the Siege the ancient Grammar School was converted into a Magazine for arms; its Head Master had been expelled as a delinquent, and his place usurped by intruding Teachers, who preferred polemical strife to solid learning. The Cloth Trade, which had already shewn signs of decay, was now entirely gone. This cessation of Trade, and the heavy exactions levied by both the contending parties, inflicted ruinous loss on the Town. Its population was seriously diminished, and until the present century it never recovered the position it had once occupied as one of the chief centres of Manufacturing industry in the West of England.

GENERAL NOTES ON THE MS. DIARY, (1641–54.) We find in this Volume, as in the preceding, that several Entries of irregular date have been interpolated at the end of MS. No. III. (see pp. 258—269), after which the regular Diary is resumed (MS. No. IV.). A break of nearly six weeks occurs in the Diary during the time of the Siege in 1643. This is naturally accounted for by the interruption caused to Municipal business from the clash of arms, and the imminent perils of the situation.

Besides the facsimile page of the MS. Diary (facing page 65) there are two other illustrations of considerable interest in this Volume. (1) A lithographed portrait of Sir Arthur Aston, Knt., Governor of Reading during the Siege, taken from an exceedingly rare etching found in the Sutherland copy of Clarendon's History of the Rebellion, now in the Bodleian Library (see frontispiece). (2) A plan of the Fortifications of Reading, from an original drawing discovered in the British Museum, and hitherto unpublished (see p. 73).

I cannot close this portion of the Diary without once more expressing the immense boon which Mr. G. W. Palmer has conferred upon the Town, by the publication of the first four volumes of this important Record. It furnishes a storehouse of authentic facts, from which the future historian of Reading may gather ample materials for illustrating the Political, Commercial, and Social aspects of the times they describe. It is to be hoped that at some early date the publication of the Diary may be continued to the Accession of the House of Hanover, or even to the commencement of the present century.

itt was made knowne and declared, that the number of votes for Mr. Vachell was 560, and the number for Mr. Ball 309 and no more, and soe, night being come, the inhabitantes departed for that tyme.

The next morninge, being Tuesdaye, the second day of December, 1645, there mett in the Councell Chamber theise Aldermen and Assistantes, vizt.,

Mr. George Woldridge, Maior. Mr. George Thorne, sen., [and] Mr. Symon Dee, justices; Mr. Thomas Harrison, Mr. Peter Burningham, Mr. Thomas Thackham, Mr. Willyam Brackston, Mr. Richard Hollowaye, Mr. John Harrison, Mr. Thomas Bateman, Mr. Peter Thorne, Mr. James Arnold.

Assistantes.

Daniell Blagrave, Esq., Walter Fellowe, Willyam Gandye, Humfrey Milles, Henry Fruin, Thomas Cope, William Belchamber.

The Company being informed that Mr. Maior and Mr. Ball and his partie, the last night by candle light, mett in the Towne hall and there framed an Indenture and signed and sealed itt for the returne of Mr. Ball, as chosen Burgesse for the Parliament, theise severall questions followeinge were putt, vizt.,

First, whether the Company would take into consideracion the casting out of names of them that voted for either parte upon their exceptions.

Resolved, that they would not, neither had they any power soe to doe.

Secondly, whether att the eleccion Mr. Vachell or Mr. Ball had most votes.

Resolved, that Mr. Vachell had most by 250 voices.

Thirdly, whether the Indenture should bee returned under the Towne Seale for Mr. Vachell or Mr. Ball.

Resolved, that itt should bee speedilye returned for Mr. Vachell whose right it was.

[p. 280.] Fourthly, whether the Company are of opinion that this delaye of Mr. Mayor in sealinge of the Indenture now tendred, and in doeinge Mr. Vachell justice, will proove prejudiciall.

Resolved, that they are of opinion, that it wilbe prejudiciall to the Parliament, to this Company, to the Towne and to Mr. Vachell.

Memorandum, Mr. Maior then confessed, that he had sett his hande and seale to Mr. Ball's Indenture as a private man, givinge his voate for him, and not as a publick man.

Alsoe Mr. Ball, being then desired to come into the Councell Chamber, did acknowledg that Mr. Maior did sett his hand and seale to his Indenture as a private man, (givinge his voate for him) and not as a publick man, and further said he did forbeare to presse Mr. Mayor to sett the Towne Seale and his hand as a publick man, for that he knew it would be very prejudiciall to him.

Memorandum, the Indenture was afterwardes againe tendred by Mr. Vachell and he required the Mayor and Company to signe and seale the same for his dispatch to the Parliament, which Indenture was signed, sealed and delivered to the Sheriffe's use, and afterwardes taken upp by Mr. Maior, whoe carried away the same and promised to returne that to the Company within 2 or 3 houres, which was not done.

The next morninge beinge Wenesdaye, the third day of December, 1645, there mett in the Councell Chamber theise Aldermen and Assistantes, viz[t].,

Aldermen.

Mr. George Wooldridg, Maior. Mr. George Thorne, sen., [and] Mr. Simon Dee, justices; Mr. Thomas Harrison, Mr. Peter Burningham, Mr. Thomas Thackham, Mr. Willyam Brackston, Mr. Richard Hollowaye, Mr. John Harrison, Mr. Thomas Bateman, Mr. Peter Thorne, Mr. James Arnold.

Assistantes.

Daniell Blagrave, Esq., Walter Fellowe, Henry Frewin, Humfrey Milles.

This daye itt was ordered and agreed that Mr. Richard Hollowaye shall this daye paye to Mr. Thomas Pococke, the schoolemaster, tenn poundes as parte of the Bishopp's money.

This daye alsoe Mr. Vachell againe required Mr. Maior to doe him justice, and to returne the Indenture concerninge his eleccion, &c., which Mr. Maior delayed by sayeing he would consider of itt, and after much tyme spent, said he would returne the one and the other by William Belchamber (which the Company refused for that he was for Mr. Ball), and at last, after more time spent, said he would returne the Indentures himselfe. Whereupon the Company present protested against the act done by Mr. Maior on Mr. Ball's behalfe, and said Mr. Maior should loose his fee for soe doeing without their consent and agreament. And thereupon the Company did rise and did order and agree to peticion the Howse of Commons concerninge this businesse and to certifye the proceedinges thereof. Mr. Maior went home. The rest of the Company staid and framed their peticion, then sent to Mr. Maior to come to Hall to acquaint him with the contentes thereof. The Serjeant brought his aunswer and said he would consider of itt; after some distance of time they sent againe to him, and then he came, and as soone as he came into the Chamber, demanded of them by what authoritie they sent for him, they said to acquaint him [with] what they had done, and soe he turned himselfe about and would not have patience to heare them but went his waye. And afterwardes they signed the peticion, the coppye whereof appeareth in the next leafe.

[p. 281.] To the Right Honorable the House of Commons in Parliament assembled, the humble Peticion of the Aldermen and Assistantes of the Boroughe of Readinge. Humbly shewe,

That whereas the Maior and Aldermen received a precept from the Sheriffe of the Countie of Berkes, bearinge date 24° November, 1645, requiringe them to chuse a Burgesse of Parliament for the said Boroughe, instead of Sir Francis Knollis, the younger, deceassed, in pursuance whereof due notice was given to the inhabitantes of the said Boroughe to attend the service uppon Mundaye, 1° December, 1645, at the Common Hall in Readinge aforesaid, where, after the votes were given for each partie, the polle was desired by Tanfield Vachell and William Ball, Esqrs., that soe the eleccion (where it fell) might be cleere and unquestionable. After the pole was ended the votes were numbred by the Maior and Aldermen, the number of votes for Mr. Vachell beinge 560, and the number for Mr. Ball beinge 309, and noe more. Thereupon the Maior and Aldermen put it to the question in their Councell Chamber for whome the Indenture should be returned. Resolved for Mr. Vachell to whome the right (without all peradventure) belonges. Yet, notwithstandinge the Maior of the Towne givinge his vote for Ball (although he hath confessed that he is convinced in his judgment and conscience that 'tis Mr. Vachell's right) by the number of voices, and thereupon did signe, seale and deliver the Indenture to the use of the Sheriffe for Mr. Vachell, yet by the persuasion of a discontented partie in the Towne, who (as we conceive) resolve never to be satisfyed, keepes the said Indenture in his hands, protractinge time on purpose (as wee are informed) till Mr. Ball cann take some exceptions against Mr. Vachell's partie, although there are more exceptions, or as many, as wee conceive, to be taken against Mr. Ball's, insomuch that the division in the Towne growes soe high, that wee feare the consequence thereof wilbe very sad.

The premisses considered, the Peticioners' humble desire is, that your Honours would take the wholle carriage of the businesse into your consideracions and that the Maior (for prevencion of further mischeiffe to the Towne) may be compelled to shew cause (if he can) why he retardes the doeing of justice, keepinge the Indenture in his hand on purpose (as we conceive) to crosse Mr. Vachell, who is a gentleman that the Towne and Countye have reason to honour for his constant adheringe to the Parliament in the cause of the Gospell. All which, notwithstandinge, wee most humbly submitt to your Honours' most grave wisedomes and judgmentes, daily prayeinge, &c.

Wensday, the xth day of December, 1645.

There were present in the Councell Chamber theise Aldermen, vizt.

[p. 314.] Henry Benwell this day paid to Mr. Cope, the Chamberlen, 4*li.* in part of payment of his arreres.

Robert James this day paid 100*li.* of Mr. Richard Johnson's guifte, heretofore borrowed by Mr. George Thorne, sen., and he promised to paye vj*li.* behinde for interest to William Belchamber, the Chamberlen; which 100*li.* was presently putt into the great chest.

To the Right Worshipfull the Maior and Aldermen of the Boroughe of Readinge in the Countye of Berks.

The humble Peticion of Walter Knight, Edward Wylmer, sen., and Edward Wylmer, jun., Attorneys of the Courte of the Borough aforesaid.

Shewes,

That for the time beyond the memory of man untill the Maioraltie of Mr. Robert Malthus, or neere thereaboutes, there never were but three Attornyes practizers in the said Court, and an Attornye's place then fallinge voide, the then Maior and Capitall Burgesses did, contrary to the former course and custome, make upp the number of fower Attornyes, and their being not ymployment for them all worth their attendance, the Maior and Capitall Burgesses shortly after, in the Maioraltie of Mr. William Kendrick, proposed and resolved to reduce them to the former number, and thereupon Mr. Anthony Mason and your peticioners, Walter Knight and Edward Wylmer, sen., (being then all Attorneys of the same Court) did, by the perswasion of the then Maior and Capitall Burgesses, disburse a competent summe of money to the full value to Mr. John Buckner, then another Attornye of the same Court, to resigne his said place, which was accordingly done. And thereupon the then Maior and Capitall Burgesses did give their full consent, and did order and decree that from thenceforth, during the lives of the said Anthony Mason, Walter Knight and Edward Wylmer, sen., and the longest liver of them, and afterwardes, duringe the pleasure of the said Maior and Capitall Burgesses, there should remaine and be but three Attornyes practizers in the said Court, and afterwardes, upon lettres procured by Mr. John Cornwall from the Earle of Holland, then High Steward of the said Towne, to the Maior and Capitall Burgesses, to admitt him an Attorney in the said Mr. Buckner's place, pretending the place to be voide by his resignacion, the then Maior, viz., Mr. Robert Bent, and the rest of the said Capitall Burgesses did, under their handes and the Towne seale, certifye the said Earle of Holland of the said order and agreament, as by the recordes appeareth; who, upon consideracion had thereof, did rest satisfied with the said order and agreament, and thereupon the said order did remaine and stand in force till the Mayoraltie of Mr. Thomas Harrison, whoe, being unacquainted with the said order, and without acquainting your peticioners with the intent of swearing a new Attorney, did admitt Mr. Henry Rogers to be a fourth Attorney.

Your peticioners humblye pray that the former order may be revived and stand in its former force, and that, upon the next vacancie of an Attornye's place, there may be but three Attornyes during the life of the said Walter Knight and Edward Wylmer, sen., and the survivor of them, and, afterwardes, during the pleasure of the Maior and Aldermen.

And your peticioners shall dailye praye, &c.

Upon consideracion had of the Peticion nowe preferd by the aforenamed Walter Knight and Edward Wylmer, sen., Attornyes in this Court, for the reasons therein expressed, the Maior and Aldermen (being fully satisfyed therein) doe order and decree that, during the life of the said Walter Knight and Edward Wylmer, sen., and the survivor of them, and, afterwardes, during the pleasure of the said Maior and Aldermen, there shall remaine and be but three Attornyes in the said Court.

At this daye Mr. John Harrison, the now elected Mayor, by directions of the Charter, in the presence of his last predecessor

[8] i.e. Twickenham. [9] i.e. Towcester. [1] Pages 343 and 344 are blank.
[2] MS. Diary No. 4 begins here, preceded by 2 blank leaves.

Mayor and the residue of the Aldermen and Assistantes then being, did take his corporall oathes, vizt.

1. The oath of Supremacie.

2. The oath of Mayor and Justice of Peace and Quorum of and in this Borough and the Liberties thereof.

3. The oath to doe the office of the Clerke of the Markett within this Borough, during the time of his Mayoraltie there.

And then also Mr. Richard Halloway, the last Mayor, did take his oath to doe the office of Justice of Peace within the said Borough, duringe one wholle yeare next comminge.

And at this day alsoe the said Mayor, by and with the consent of the Aldermen his Brethren, did agree that the two old Chamberlaines, vizt., Mr. Thomas Cope and Mr. Willyam Belchamber, being formerly sworne, should continue to execute the office of Chamberlaynes of this Borough for the next yeare.

And at this day alsoe the said Mayor and Aldermen did nominate and appoint Constables and Wardens of and in the said Borough for the next yeare, vizt.

Jonathan Greenway Edward Aires	gardiani Minster Warde, jurati.

[p. 2.] This daye Mr. Mayor and Mr. Burningham gave in their report concerning the landes of Mr. Whitlock, (which att his desire they have lately viewed,) and which he offers in exchange for the former landes of him purchased. And they say and conceive that the landes now viewed and offered as aforesaid wilbe sufficient for the monyes laid out upon the former purchase.

This daie alsoe all Mr. Whitlocke's rent arreare and due to this daye being questioned, and itt being informed that he will pay but a third parte thereof, it was put to the question whether the matter as to the payment of the rent should be left to himselfe. Thereupon itt was resolved that itt should be left to himselfe, hopinge that, out of his ingenuitie and good nature, he would inlardge himselfe.

This daye alsoe Mr. John Harrison, Mayor elect, did move to have the allowance of the antient fee formerly allowed, which was not denyed him; and afterwardes put to the question, how he should be paid: and thereupon resolved that he should have the Tolle of the Markett this yeare, for which Thomas Kinge paid 44*li.*, with which the said Mr. John Harrison was content.

Willyam Milles, Richard Alright, Richard Birch.

This daie John Cule beinge convented before Mr. Mayor was wished to keepe good orders [sic] in his house, otherwise his ale-house shalbe suppressed.

This daie Richard Alright, one of the Assistantes, havinge byn junior Chamberlen to this Corporacion for one yeare, to witt, from Michaelmas, 1650, to Michaellmas, 1651, did give uppe his accompte of all the moneyes for Charitable uses which he had receaved and disbursed in the said yeare, which accompt was allowed of by the Company.

This daie Owen Owens, laborer, (being convicted by the testimoney of Richard Stampe, constable, for swearinge once prophanely by his faith) did paie 3*s.* 4*d.* for the use of the poore accordinge to the Act.

Agreed that Richard Birch, the new Chamberlen, shall forthwith provide gownes for Mr. Willyam Kendricke's almes-people, the charge whereof being deducted out of the surplus remayninge upon Mr. William Kendricke's last accompte, the residue of the said surplus shall goe towardes the payment of the debt oweing from Mr. Kendricke's accompte to the Hall for buyldinge the Barne in Sivyer Streete, blowne downe by tempest.

Agreed that Mr. Mayor shall assigne Nicholas Middleton's daughter 5*s.* out of the Charitable uses, to paie the Surgeon towardes the cure of her handes.

Whereas upon the accompt of the said Richard Alright there is due unto Edward Wylmer th'elder, Towne-Clerke, the summe of viij*li.* for writinge and registring the accomptes for Charitable uses the last two yeares, itt is nowe agreed that the said viij*li.* shalbe paid unto the said Edward Wylmer out of the Hall revenue, and that viij*li.* being the surplus remayninge upon the generall accompte shalbe accompted for by Richard Birch, Chamberlen, att the next accompte.
